Big Prize-Fighters.

New York, March 9.—A comparison of the proportions of Jackson and Corbett show in most points that they are exceedingly well matched. The Australian has the better-developed shoulders. Corbett is 6 feet 2 inches in height; Jackson, 6 feet 1 inch. A tape encircling the shoulder and chest would prove Jackson to have more expansive driving machinery. Here are the dimensions:

	Corbett	Jackson
Chest	42 1/2	42 1/2
Waist	39	38 1/2
Reach	34	35
Thigh	24	25 1/2
Shoulders	24	26
Neck	15	17 1/2
Calf	17	17 1/2
Biceps	15 1/2	16
Forearm	14 1/2	14 1/2
Weight	184	195

To Examine Jackson.

New York, March 9.—Dr. John W. Gibbs has made arrangements to make an examination of Peter Jackson, the pugilist, and tomorrow will take all Jackson's measurements, and estimate the force of his blow, beside passing upon his general physical condition. The same progress was undergone by Corbett before his fights with Sullivan and Mitchell, and while the test in the latter instance served to convey Corbett's physical superiority over the Englishman, Sullivan's powers were clearly demonstrated to be far superior to those of the Californian, who whipped John L. Sullivan with ease. Jackson has never been put under this method of analysis, and much interest is expressed in the way he will show up.

He Wanted Revenge.

Raleigh, N. C., March 9.—December a fast freight train on the Seaboard Air Line railway was derailed and wrecked at the little village of Pine Bluff, N. C., and the fireman was hurt. It was found that a switch had been broken.

Detectives have since then been looking for the train wrecker, and arrested George Brown on Saturday in Florence. On Monday they took him to Pine Bluff. He was tried yesterday and made a full confession, saying that he had a grudge against the brakeman on the train and had sworn to kill him. He tied the switch bar, open the switch, hid behind a stump and saw the train wrecked. Brown was convicted and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

Sandow, the Strong Man.

Sandow, said to be the strongest man in the world, passed through Reno yesterday afternoon en route from New York to San Francisco. Many expressions of surprise and wonder, if not disappointment, were heard at his general appearance. One naturally forms an opinion that a man of such great strength must be a large man, but not so in this case. He is a man who would not attract more than a passing notice among a crowd, being but little above the average in height. He had with him several dumbbells which required the full strength of some of Reno's heavy-weights to lift.—Journal.

Hy. Down's Concurs.

"For once I think the APPEAL is right," said Hy Down yesterday. "I think this wanton destruction of innocent meadow larks by amateur sportsman should be stopped. I have known Bryson to do the same thing before, on the grounds that he wanted to teach a mongrel setter to retrieve. I never killed one of these larks but once, and I swore never to do it again, and I never will. I winged the bird, and when I picked it up the poor little thing settled down in my hand, sang that plaintive yet melodious little song and expired. I never felt so ashamed of myself in my life. I just slunk home and didn't have the nerve to look my dog in the face."

Without Precedent.

Washington, March 9.—President Cleveland has promised to review the Knights of Pythias at their triennial encampment in Washington next August. General Schofield has consented to inspect the Knights. This is the first time the President and the commanding general of the army have so honored similar organizations.

Another Boarder.

The Ormsby House (see adv. elsewhere) secured a steady boarder yesterday, and Walter Chedie, the proprietor, and his wife are correspondingly elated. It was a boy and weighed nine (9) pounds.

Smelt have been so plentiful in Portland that dealers gave them away to get rid of them. Several years ago smelt were so thick in Lewis river that Captain Weir's boat had to lay up for three hours. Of course the boat could run through the schools of fish, but the wheel dished them up so fast that the openings for the connecting rod from the cylinder to the crank shaft were filled up and stopped the boat. The fan-tail also got full and raised the wheel house up. As the boat ascended the river a wake of dead fish was left behind.

While digging a well on the farm of John Welters, near Hartine, Douglas county, Wash., the workmen, at a depth of seventy-six feet, detected a hollow, answering sound to the blows of the pick. Tapping the side of the wall, they broke into a cavern, with a good sized stream of water flowing along its bed. They entered the space for ten or twelve feet, but declined to explore the subterranean hall any further. The stream was easily diverted into the well.
